Webinar 2020

The student seminar was held on 28th August 2020 in the Google meet platform as the country was still reeling under the calamity of pandemic. The lockdown forced us to arrange our annual students seminar to be a webinar and our zealous and enthusiastic students willingly participated in this academic annual event. 23 students from semesters 2 & 4 presented papers on socio-cultural history of India and beyond. The webinar was attended by faculties from different departments and Prof. Anindita Sarkar from the Department of Sociology kindly agreed to be the judge. 3 papers from Semester 2 and 2 papers from semester 4 were awarded. The certificate of appreciation and certificate of participation were duly mailed to the student.

Seminar 2022

After two years we got the opportunity to hold our annual students seminar in offline It's time to meet our students physically and hopefully the days of online classes are over. The 2022 seminar's topic was The New History: Beyond Conventional Historical Research and was held on 5th May in the seminar room from 11AM. 8 students primarily from Semester 4 and 2 from semester 6 gave quite a matured presentation. The papers ranged from history of marriage to thr history of biriyani and the food culture of Kolkata. The cinema culture, Satyajit Ray to psychedelic evolution in different cultures were the arenas where our students treaded with confidence. Prof. Sarasij Sengupta from the Department of History was the judge of our department's annual students seminar.

Seminar 2023

The integral role of religion in human history, its dual nature as both an instrument of liberation and coercion cannot be overlooked in today's world. We decided upon the topic "Religion and History" as the topic of annual students seminar of 2023. The papers presented by our students were expected to highlight the importance of understanding the historical context of religions, their interactions, and their evolution over time and they fared well. Fundamental questions regarding the personal and universal aspects of religion were raised, showcasing the complex relationships between religion, culture, politics, and economics, and noting the significant impact of religion on society and knowledge. Professor Sarasij Sengupta, Department of Bengali and Professor Ruth Rhea Khan, Department of Political Science were the judge of the seminar.
